

Frankfort Couple Critically Hurt In Automobile Collision

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Heusner of Frankfort figured in a serious auto accident Sunday morning while driving to Joliet.

The accident occurred about two miles east of Joliet on the Lincoln Highway.

According to a report at state police headquarters, Edward Dunlavy, aged 33 of New Lenox accompanied by several young men was driving east. As he reached a line of cars he was unable to stop, it is believed, and swerved out into the west bound lane, where his machine crashed headon with the car driven by Mr. Heusner. The couple was enroute to Joliet to get their daughter Frances. Joliet Township High school honor student who led the graduating class scholastically.

Mr. Heusner, in an unconscious condition, and his wife, who is believed to be injured internally, were taken to the Silver Cross hospital in Joliet by Louis Kelley of Plainfield, state patrolman. Mr. Heusner suffered a skull fracture. He did not regain consciousness until Monday morning. Dunlavy was taken to the St. Joseph hospital in Joliet. X-rays were taken to determine the extent of the head and leg injuries he sustained.

It was reported by witnesses that the three persons believed to have been in the car driven by Dunlavy left the scene of the accident after apparently escaping injury.

While Mr. and Mrs. Heusner are still in a critical condition, some improvement has been noted in their conditions, and barring complications, they are expected to recover.

In the meantime Dunlavy faces a charge of operating a machine with fictitious license plates.

State police intended to move him to the Will county jail but at St. Joseph's hospital where he is confined with injuries received in the accident, it was thought that his condition would not permit. Bonds probably will be allowed, state police said, in view of his condition, and the case continued.

MOKENA COUPLE ARE SURPRISED ON 10th WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

A large crowd of friends and relatives gathered at the St. Mary Hall in Mokena Friday night and surprised Mr. and Mrs. Harold Spiess also of Mokena, in honor of their tenth wedding anniversary. Pinoche and bunco were the chief diversions. A sumptuous lunch was served. The guest list was as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Laufer and family; Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Newton; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Maue; Mrs. Rose Moriarty; Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Spiess; Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Spiess and daughter Doris; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Schmuhl; Harry Yunker, all of Mokena; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Voss and daughters Lois and June; Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Schmuhl; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Schmuhl, all of Joliet; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Schmuhl and daughter Marjorie; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Spiess and sons Walter and Melvin of New Lenox; Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Schmuhl and daughters Marie, June and Shirley; Mr. and Mrs. George Schroeder and sons Glen and Donald; Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Spiess and son, Raymond, all of Frankfort and Jack Campbell of Virginia.

4H CLUBS ENTERTAINED BY ELWOOD CLUB

The 4-H Clubs of Will County were invited to an entertainment meeting held at Elwood, June 18th. The Elwood 4H Club did the inviting and for the main part of the program they had each club prepare some sort of stunt or performance. One of the most comical was "Starting the Old Ford" which was given by the Wesley Township 4H Club. The Frankfort-New Lenox 4H club furnished an orchestra which was led by Lawrence Kohl of Mokena. Playlets, pantomimes and singing were also part of the program. L. W. Braham, Will County Farm Adviser was present and gave an address.

The entire group joined in singing with Lewis Ebert playing the piano. Games and other forms of amusement were then engaged in by all. The music for this part of the entertainment was furnished by Lewis Ebert playing the piano and Mr. Lawrence Kohl accompanying on the violin.

MOKENA GIRL MAKES HIGH MARK AT URBANA

One hundred sixty-five students in the University of Illinois College of Education made averages of 4, or better out of a possible 5, according to Dean T. E. Benner. Of the 165, 14 made perfect 5. averages.

Almira Koeller, Cross Street, Mokena, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Koeller, Sr., made an average of 4.08 for her second semester's work, according to Dean Benner's announcement. She is a Junior in the University's College of Education.

V. F. W. PICNIC HELD IN SPITE OF RAINY DAY

The much heralded picnic of the V. F. W., held last Sunday afternoon and evening in the Frankfort Grove would have been attended by thousands had not a heavy rain set in at noon which continued intermittently throughout the rest of the day and evening. In spite of this weather fully a thousand people were in attendance.

The big disappointment came in the afternoon when the ball game between the Farm Bureau Ball Club and the Mokena Aces was rained out.

The large crowd packed the pavilion whenever a rain squall came and the Frankfort school band entertained with a concert toward evening which was much enjoyed, and the band received many compliments on their excellent playing.

The following state officers were present: New Department of Illinois Commander Yetter, Charles Solensky, Dep't. of Administration, George Dougherty, Dep't. of Illinois Quarter Master, and Edward Gabrielson. Liaison Officer, Hines Hospital.

Walter Herschbach, Assistant State's Attorney of Will County, was also present.

Rep. Lottie Holman O'Neill of Downers Grove braved the rain and drove here with a number of women from her community. During a lull in the rain storm she addressed a large crowd from the out door band stand in the grove. She was given a big hand as she is very popular throughout this section. Her constituents in this vicinity admire her stand and work in the legislature in Springfield.

In the evening the dance pavilion was packed for the dance. Music was by Elphick's orchestra.

Promptly at 10 o'clock a new Ford V8 was given away, Roy Couzens of Joliet, collector for the Metropolitan Insurance Company receiving the car.

Last, but not least, a great deal of credit is due Henry Tyler of the Wm. Martin Post V. F. W., for the success of the picnic. He planned and executed the undertaking and had not the rain set in when it did, the picnic would have drawn the largest crowd ever seen on the Frankfort Grove.

Not daunted by the adverse weather conditions, the Post is planning for another big picnic next June and hope to select a rainless date.

Marley Church Scene of Pretty June Wedding

Miss Mary Frances Frazer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James D. Frazer, Bruce Road, was married at 3 o'clock, Saturday afternoon in the Marley Community church to Harry H. Hull, Chicago Heights, son of Mrs. Matilda Hull.

Miss Anna Penn played the wedding march from "Lohengrin", as the bride entered on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. L. Snodgrass of the Marley Community Church before an altar of ferns, yellow roses and blue corn flowers. Just before the bride party entered Miss Louise Storm of Lockport sang "At Dawning" and "I Love You Truly" and after they arrived at the altar she sang "Love's Coronation". Miss Penn, a classmate of the bride at the University of Chicago, presided at the piano.

The bride wore a light blue suit trimmed with ice-blue fox with harmonizing blue accessories. She wore a corsage of white gardenias and carried as her wedding handkerchief, one made by her great grandmother, also Mary Frances Frazer, and given to her by her great-aunt, Mrs. Harry Cowell, of Nampa, Idaho. The maid of honor, Miss Helen Frazer, twin sister of the bride, wore a maize suit with brown accessories. She wore a corsage of Johanna Hill roses and blue delphinium. Merland Reed, of Joliet, served as best man and Robert Lawson, Fraternity brother of the bridegroom, of Elgin, and Rodger Wreath, of Chicago Heights, graduate of the University of Illinois, served as ushers.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents for the immediate relatives and friends. A buffet luncheon was served to forty-five guests.

The bride was graduate of the Lockport High School where she received the Scholastic Award and was elected a member of the National Honor Society. She attended the Joliet Junior College and was graduated from the University of Chicago in 1934. She taught in the public schools for 3 years, this last year at Fairmont. Mr. Hull graduated from Joliet High School, Joliet Junior College, and the Purdue University in 1933 where he was a member of the Delta Alpha Pi, social fraternity and Tau Beta Pi, honorary fraternity. He is now employed as a chemist at the Victor Chemical Company in Chicago Heights.

Frankfort Girl Disappears From Home Sunday

A grandmother is believed to have spirited her granddaughter away at Frankfort the forepart of the week and she was being sought by the Will county authorities Wednesday. The girl in question, Aurelia M. Busse, daughter of George Busse, disappeared from her home in Frankfort last Sunday. The girl is 14 years old.

According to the story told by her father to Sheriff Michael Breen the girl had been gone since Sunday afternoon, when she was left at home alone while the father went to Chicago.

The girl's grandmother whom the father accuses of having taken the girl away, lives in Flossmoor near Harvey, and when sheriff's deputies went there Tuesday night at the insistence of the father, the grandmother was not at home, nor was there any trace of the missing girl.

Busse told Sheriff Breen that the grandmother had threatened to take the girl because of his second marriage.

Mrs. Martha Menke of Tinley Park, who has been ill and a patient in the Harvey hospital, died in the hospital at one o'clock Thursday morning.

Surviving are the husband, Henry Menke, one son Henry, Jr., two daughters, Eleanor and Lillian. Funeral services will be held this Sunday afternoon from the late home in Tinley Park at 1 p. m., day light saving time and will conclude at the Trinity Lutheran church in Bachelors Grove.

Rain Spoils Flowers For Flower Show

The Tinley Park Garden Club held their flower show in the Tinley Park School Auditorium Thursday afternoon and evening. Despite the prolonged rain which raised havoc with flowers, there was a nice display of choice blooms. Many plants and vegetables and fruits were exhibited. More complete details of the show will be given next week.

Find Oil Veins at Frankfort at 1000 Foot Depth

Oil well drilling operations which were begun on the McGlashen farm east of Frankfort last fall, are still going on. While the promoters and the drillers are not giving out any information as to the progress of the venture, it is understood that so far the drillers have gone down better than a thousand feet and mostly thru solid rock. Several small veins of oil are said to have been struck, the drillers are going on down deeper with the hopes of either bringing in a "gusher" or at least a good paying oil vein.

Mrs. Smith Dies At Daughter's Home

Mrs. Smith, aged 85 years, died suddenly at the home of her daughter, Mrs. George Wannemacher, residing near Tinley Park, Thursday evening of this week. She had been making her home with her daughter for the past ten years.

LAST MEETING OF SEASON

The Men's Endeavor Club of the Frankfort M. E. church held their final meeting for the season last Tuesday night at the Charles Mark farm. About 125 guests were present. The club will dispense with the meetings for the summer but will resume their monthly meetings in October.

3 MEN INJURED WHEN DRIVER DISREGARDS STOP SIGN AT FOUR CORNERS NORTH OF FRANKFORT

The four corners north of Frankfort where Keane avenue junctions with Lincoln highway, was the scene of a serious auto accident Thursday evening about six o'clock, when a Willys Knight car in which two men were driving south on Keane avenue, failed to stop for the Lincoln highway and ran in front of a Chevrolet car going east.

The lone driver of the Chevrolet could not stop and crashed into the Willys Knight, hurling it across the street.

The three men occupants of the wrecked cars were badly hurt, one perhaps critically. All were taken to a hospital in Joliet.

Both cars were damaged beyond repair.

The four corners have a clear view in all directions, but there are so many careless drivers who cross Lincoln Highway at 60 miles an hour without looking for traffic on that road.

The State should place a Stop and Go sign or have a special policeman at this corner. Every driver who fails to stop at this corner, should be arrested and given a stiff fine or else have their automobile license revoked.

MRS. GEORGE THEIS FORMER TINLEY PARK RESIDENT DIES

Mrs. George Theis, aged eighty years, a former Tinley Park resident, died Monday at the home of her daughter Mrs. Henry Cohrs in Flossmoor.

Mr. Theis who died a number of years ago, was one of the organizers of the Bremen State Bank of Tinley Park.

Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon at the Coopers Grove Lutheran church with burial in the Coopers Grove cemetery.

Washington Digest

National Topics Interpreted
by William Bruckart
National Press Building Washington, D. C.

Washington.—It is never easy or simple to attempt a forecast of the reactions of a nation as large as ours. There are so many cross-currents, so many local influences and factors at work that the popular reaction sometimes, usually in fact, is slow in crystallizing. Thus, it appears safe to say at this writing that the administration's future course on NRA and other New Deal policies concerning which there is constitutional doubt necessarily must provide a basis for the 1936 campaign.

Yet, certainly it can surely be said that the issue is now drawn and that the battle next year will be between radicals and conservatives; between those who favor constitutional government and those who think our nation has gone beyond the considerations laid down by the founding fathers, and between those who regard American traditions and practices as worth defending and an opposition constituted wholly of those who desire to remake our modes of living.

In these days of swiftly changing conditions in Washington, one can observe certain outcroppings in the numerous controversies and the wild confusion, and these point definitely in one direction. They indicate the break-up, the disintegration, of the old political parties. It is too early to predict whether our two-party system will continue even under the names of Democratic and Republican. Certainly if those two names continue they will shield under their banners eventually an entirely different party leadership and party personnel.

Proof of this contention lies in the numerous statements, suggestions and trial balloons that have floated about—all serving as feelers in the direction of a coalition among opposition to the New Deal. It is to be noted that among those who have put out feelers about coalition have been some very well known names, both among Democrats and Republicans. These moves probably will not develop into important activities but they constitute straws showing which way the wind blows.

All of the above is by way of saying that Mr. Roosevelt as the head and forefront of the New Deal is at the parting of the ways. Soon, he must choose whether he will align himself definitely and completely with the radical element as typified by the Tugwells, the Richbergs, the Wheelers and La Follettes or whether he will turn to the philosophies of the old-line-Jeffersonian Democrats, most of whom come from what used to be the Solid South insofar as Democratic voters were concerned. He must make this choice because it is no longer possible for him to ride two horses, successful as he was in the early days of his administration in keeping the two wings of his party together. When he has made that choice, at that same time begins the development of a new political party alignment in the United States. These conclusions are the conclusions of the most astute politicians and observers in Washington.

The question may be asked: What has brought about these new conditions so suddenly? Defections Increase The answer may not be as apparent as it seems. Off-hand, one would say that the sudden halt of the New Deal program that was accomplished through the NRA decision by the Supreme court of the United States had actually amounted to a major operation. This is only partially true. The Supreme court decision while blocking further expansion of the New Deal in the direction in which it was tending simply provided a focal point around which the maelstrom centers. In other words, through all the months since the New Deal came into power defections have been increasing. The opposition, growing in strength, at last has been given an anchor. The cumulative character of the opposition and the dissension and dissatisfaction has made it possible for a single incident such as the Supreme court decision to provide what politicians call an issue.

If the Supreme court ruling had not been sufficient to accomplish this purpose, Mr. Roosevelt personally provided the necessary additional momentum. When he spoke in his now famous press conference about the court decision having the effect of pushing American social life back to "horse and buggy days" he set up at one and the same time a circumstance that molded his own supporters in one group and the opposition concretely in another.

So avidly did the opposition seize upon Mr. Roosevelt's statement that many newspapers of influence in the country construed it as a challenge to the Supreme court. Obviously the President, occupying a co-equal status with the Supreme court in our form of government, had no intention of issuing a challenge to the Supreme court in the ordinary sense of the word. What he intended was to explain to the country that the time had come for the nation to consider its future course; the question he propounded in effect was whether the limitations, the maxima and the minima, laid down in the Constitution were sufficiently flexible to cover life as we now live it. From sober-thinking individuals, I gather that this is the point which must be developed fully in advance of the November elections of 1936.

Consequently, some observers believe the campaign next year ought to be on a higher plane than any in recent history. They point to the fact that determination of the question just outlined above carries with it the collateral determination of whether the United States shall be one vast empire with state lines virtually obliterated. Likewise, determination of the question referred to will bring an answer to a further question, namely, whether the American people desire that their government shall control individual businesses or whether those businesses and the practices of the citizenry shall be permitted to continue as was the desire of the colonists when they fought off the armies of King George.

But there will be some sixteen months of time that must elapse before the American people can express their opinion and their wishes at the polls. In that interim, pressing problems resulting from the New Deal program must be solved.

At the moment, what to do with NRA as well as how to do it stands foremost. Behind it lies troublesome questions centering in the farm policies of the Agricultural Adjustment administration. Permeating the very structure of the New Deal is the broader question of whether it is desirable to continue so many of the alphabetical agencies as permanent units of the government since each of them was created in response to a plan necessitated by desires for economic recovery. NRA will be continued in a skeleton form. Its powers and its functions will be very limited. Some vitriolic opponents of NRA are declaring that its skeleton organization is being maintained solely as a face-saving proposition. They argue that Mr. Roosevelt could not admit complete defeat of this outstanding plank in his recovery platform.

The truth seems to be that Mr. Roosevelt, while unwilling to admit defeat in this direction, is waiting until he can determine what the wishes of the country are and how far the majority of the population will go with him in rebuilding the structure on lines within the limitations prescribed by the Supreme court. Thus far, certainly he has had considerable evidence of benefits accruing from the NRA experiment. No other view can be taken of announcements by many industrial leaders to the effect that they intend to continue hours of labor and wage levels to which they had subscribed under the codes of fair practice—all of which were thrown out the window by the Supreme court as illegal.

To the extent that important industrial lines are continuing to observe the code conditions on a voluntary basis it is believed Mr. Roosevelt can take credit for having moved general business to a plane against which even the social theorists can offer little complaint. The President has termed those who have been guilty of unfair and unjust treatment of labor and the consuming public "chiselers." There is chiseling going on now. Probably, there will be more of it. If it becomes too widespread, it seems reasonably certain that there will be a strong reaction among thinking people. This reaction will strengthen whatever moves the President makes to revise the constitutional limitations about which he has complained.

There was an incident of historic importance in the Capitol building the other day. The Supreme court of the United States met as usual in its chambers under the dome of the Capitol on June 3. As far as outward appearances go it was simply another session in which the nine dignified and learned justices met to publicly render the conclusions of law they had reached. But it was more than that. It was the last time the court was to convene in that chamber, and today it is dim in the sallow light of shaded windows for the first time since 1860.

When the court convenes next October after its usual summer recess, the justices will climb marble steps into a gigantic new ten-million-dollar structure—the permanent home of the court for the future. It is a building ornate in its simplicity. The court chambers and the private offices of the justices represent architectural masterpieces. Equipment of the most modern type has been installed. Convenience is everywhere. Yet one of the older members of the court whom it has been my privilege to know remarked with just a touch of pathos in his voice that he believed he would prefer his old office and the old bench and bar where he had served so long. The chamber that is now deserted was used in the earliest part of its history as the meeting place of the United States senate. It was there that the voices of Calhoun and Webster were heard.

ILLINOIS BREVITIES

Thomas J. Cuniff, farmer residing south of Sterling, committed suicide by hanging.

Charles Van Halle, eighty-five, of East Moline, was killed by a Rock Island freight train.

Ernest J. Krutgen, Chicago postmaster, laid the corner stone for the new Wilmette post office.

James Shanks, fourteen-year-old Champaign high school sophomore, was fatally injured as the result of a 20-foot fall from a train.

Charles W. Peterson, seventy-two, owner of the Standard Pattern works for 15 years until his retirement in 1925, died in Rockford.

Former Judge John Small, seventy-eight, prominent Illinois jurist and only brother of former Gov. Len Small, died at his home in Kankakee.

Ten acre parcels of farm land were allotted at the Libertyville village hall to 21 Lake county families under a federal subsistence homestead project.

Justice Clyde E. Stone of Peoria, only Republican member of the Illinois Supreme court, became chief justice, succeeding Norman L. Jones of Carrollton.

Frank L. McGrew, telegraph editor of the Peoria Journal-Transcript, was fatally injured when his automobile collided with one driven by Lawrence Duffin of Pekin.

Galva's city collector, driven from his office by termites, moved in with the city clerk, while the wooden floor of his room, honeycombed by the insects, was being replaced with tile.

John A. Lynn, sixty-four years old, a manufacturer of rustic furniture for gardens, was found dead in the kitchen of his home in Glenview. He had placed a raincoat over his head and turned on a gas jet.

Knute E. Knutsson, sixty, founder and president of the Rockford Illustrating and the Illinois Cabinet companies, was found dead of what police said was carbon monoxide poisoning in the garage of his home.

Driven from their homes by dust storms, 18 persons from Glen Elder, Kan., have settled on farms near Coleta and Rock Falls, in Whiteside county. Some of the men made 13 trips over the 622 miles between Whiteside county and Glen Elder to move their household and farm equipment to Morrison. One of them, Jacob Stouffer, was president of the Mitchell county farm bureau in Kansas.

Newspaper men could not be compelled to divulge the source of any news under a bill introduced in the general assembly by Representative F. W. Lewis, Democrat, of Robinson. Lewis, only daily newspaper publisher in the assembly, said he believed newspaper men should be protected against being forced to divulge the source of the news they write. The bill would provide a law similar to that enacted by legislatures in New Jersey and Maryland.

A train on the Chicago and Illinois Midland railroad, frequent victim in mine war vandalism, was derailed near Athens, injuring the engineer, Whitney Sapp. The explosion, felt by residents of Athens, overturned the locomotive. The train, southbound, had been preceded by a handcar bearing railroad special agents, a precaution taken regularly because of the strike trouble. Special agents of the railroad said they were told by a farmer, John Glenn, that he saw several automobiles carrying men near the scene of the blast shortly before the train approached.

A thousand boys of high school age from all parts of Illinois will be given a chance during the last week in June to go to Springfield and organize a "Boys State" under the auspices of the American Legion and several other organizations. The aim of the sponsors is to give the boys lessons in practical government, to build a sound loyalty upon a proper understanding of government and to combat radical tendencies. Co-operating with the Legion are the Elks, the Loyal Order of Moose, Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions, the Forty and Eight, the American Business club, the American Legion auxiliary, and Daughters of the American Revolution.

John C. Martin of Salem, Marion county, was elected chairman of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission by the other members to succeed Robert J. Dunham. Mr. Dunham resigned as chairman to become state work progress director under President Roosevelt's work relief program. He agreed, however, to remain a member of the commission. By profession a small town banker, Mr. Martin is chairman of the state tax commission. He was appointed to this post by Governor Horner after completing a two year term as state treasurer last January. As state treasurer he was a member ex officio of the relief commission and remained a member by appointment of Governor Horner after he went to the tax commission.

Dr. C. St. Clair Drake, managing officer of the Jacksonville State hospital, died in Springfield of heart disease after a long illness. He entered the state service in 1912 and resigned after Gov. Frank O. Lowden's term expired to become medical statistician for the American Medical society. He was reappointed by Governor Emmer-son in 1928.

Gov. Henry Horner was directed by the house of representatives to apply to the federal government for a grant of $2,000,000 with which to construct an office building in Chicago to house various state agencies situated there.

Ring Brings Misfortune; Is Returned to Egypt

A registered packet arrived for the premier of Egypt from Vancouver, and was found to contain a beautiful scarab ring accompanied by a letter, writes the Cairo correspondent of the London Sunday Observer.

The writer informed his excellency that the ring had been given by the khedive to his grandfather, who had been visiting Cairo and Alexandria with a theatrical company. His grandfather had died about sixty years ago, leaving the ring to his father, from whom the writer had inherited it some seven years later. Ever since the ring had come into his possession unaccountable misfortunes had befallen him every seventh year, and it was clear that possession of the ring carries with it some curse. In order to avoid further ill luck in 1935, a seventh year, he was returning the ring whence his family had received it.

WHEN LIVES ARE AT STAKE

You need the same protection that race drivers demand

KELLY PETILLO ON MAY 30, WON the 500-Mile Indianapolis Race on Firestone Tires, breaking the track record and driving the entire distance at a rate of 106.24 miles per hour.

This record is an outstanding demonstration of tire efficiency. To go 500 miles in less than five hours on this rough and bumpy 26-year-old brick track, without tire trouble of any kind, demonstrates the strength and blowout protection that Firestone builds into their Gum-Dipped Tires.

AB JENKINS ALSO RECENTLY demonstrated the stamina, efficiency, and blowout protection built into Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires. He drove his 5000 pound car over the hot salt beds at Lake Bonneville, Utah, 3000 miles in 23½ hours. This was an average speed of 127.2 miles per hour, and although temperatures were as high as 120°, he had no blowouts or tire trouble of any kind.

These records are made possible by special construction features built into Firestone Tires.

Take no chances—protect your life and the lives of others by letting us equip your car with Firestone Tires and give you the Safety and Blowout Protection that race drivers demand.

Before you buy new tires ask yourself these three questions

- 1—"Will the tread give me the greatest traction and protection against skidding?"
- 2—"Are they built to give me the greatest blowout protection?"
- 3—"Without sacrificing these two important safety features will they give me longer mileage, thus making them the most economical tires I can buy?"

HIGH SPEED TYPE
We select from our enormous stocks of raw materials the best and highest grade rubber and cotton for the High Speed Tire. In our factory we select the most experienced and skilled tire makers to build this tire. It is accurately balanced and rigidly inspected and we know it is as perfect as human ingenuity can make it.

"Fastest Engine in World" Put in Service

THIS photograph shows the unvel-ling, at the American Locomotive company works in Schenectady, N. Y., of what is called the fastest engine in the world. It has a rated top speed of 120 miles an hour and already is in service drawing the Milwaukee rail-road's new streamline train, Hiawatha, between Chicago and Minneapolis.

BEDTIME STORY FOR CHILDREN

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

NANNY IS SURE DANNY IS DEAD

THE silvery light of sweet Mistress Moon flooded the Green Meadows and chased the Black Shadows clear back to the very edges of the Green Meadows. It was just such a night as a Meadow Mouse loves, and Nanny Meadow Mouse would have enjoyed it and rejoiced in it and been thoroughly happy but for one thing. The truth is, Danny Meadow Mouse had spoiled that beautiful night for Nanny Meadow Mouse. He didn't know he had, but he had. You see, Nanny was worried and her worry was all on account of Danny.

The newest babies were quite safe in their snug nest, hidden—well, I won't tell you just where it was hidden. That was Danny's and Nanny's secret, so I guess I haven't any right to tell you just where that snug little nest was. If I did they might not trust me again.

Anyway, those newest babies were quite safe, because they were too young to crawl out even if they should waken, which they were not likely to do because their little stomachs were full.

He Certainly Must Be Dead; Nanny Was Sure of It.

Little Meadow Mice are like other babies in that when their stomachs are full they sleep and grow. So Nanny didn't worry about the babies.

The half-grown children had romped and played in the moonlight until they had become so tired that they were glad to curl up in their beds. They were dreaming the pleasantest of Meadow Mouse dreams. So Nanny didn't worry about them. But she did worry about Danny Meadow Mouse. Why didn't he come home? Never since she had known him had Danny been gone so long. Something must have happened to him. She was sure of it.

Had Reddy or Granny Fox caught him? She hadn't seen either of them on the Green Meadows that day, but one of them might have been there long enough to catch Danny without being seen by her. Or perhaps Black Pussy the Cat from Farmer Brown's had surprised Danny. She had seen Redtail the Hawk sailing over the Green Meadows twice during the day and it might be that he had dined on Danny. It was a dreadful thought. She couldn't get rid of it. If something dreadful hadn't happened, Danny never would have stayed away like this.

Nanny tried to be hopeful. She tried to take a nap, for she was very, very, very tired. But she couldn't sleep. She couldn't even keep still. She kept creeping out to look along the private little paths she and Danny had made through the grass, hoping each time to see him hurrying home along one of them.

Sweet Mistress Moon climbed higher and higher in the sky and then began to go lower and lower, and the Black Shadows began once more to creep out across the Green Meadows. Soon Jolly, round, red Mr. Sun would come up to chase them away altogether and a new day would begin. Still no Danny. He must be dead. Nanny was sure of it.

QUESTION BOX

by ED WYNN, The Perfect Fool

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I have just taken a job as a waiter in a downtown restaurant. I don't get a big salary; so depend a lot on my tips. Today a man had his meal, and when I gave him his check he said he could not give me a tip, as he only had enough money to pay the check. I'll never make any money that way. What shall I do the next time a man says that to me?

Yours truly,

I. SERVWELL.

Answer: The next time a man says he only has enough to pay for his check just take the check back and add it up again.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I have a girl friend who has a nasty habit of always saying nasty things about all the other girls. Everybody knows that about her, yet last night a boy friend who knows her said she was something to adore. What do you make out of that?

Sincerely,

C. KRITS.

Answer: When he said she was something to adore he probably meant that she was a knocker.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I went to a school dance the other night and danced with the same girl twice. She let me take her home, and as I left her I told her I thought she was the sweetest girl in the whole world and now she won't go out with me any more. I wonder why?

Truly yours,

WHATT SRONG.

Answer: She doesn't want to dis-appoint you.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I am a girl seven years old. My teacher in Sunday school asked me how many commandments there are. I said, "ten," then she said, "suppose I broke one?" and I couldn't answer her. Now she says I can't come back to Sunday school until I bring her an answer. Can you help me?

Truly yours,

MAY B. U. KNOE.

Answer: That's very simple, my

IT ISN'T HOME!

THE ocean meets the sky and joins its blue.

The waves are tipped with shredded silver foam.

I gaze upon the sea and think of you. It may be beautiful, but it isn't home.

The splendid city flings its buildings high.

The stars are all alight in heaven's dome . . .

The lighted windows and the starry sky . . .

It's all so beautiful, but it isn't home!

little of the rind of each and a cupful of banana pulp. Peel and scrape bananas and put through a ricer or sieve. Beat the fruit mixture and sirup together, chill and stir in three cupfuls of whipped cream, or the whites of three eggs. Freeze to a soft mush.

Braised New Cabbage.

Melt one-fourth of a cupful of sweet fat in a saucepan, add two green apples and two onions finely chopped; cook gently for three minutes, then add one shredded cabbage, three cloves, one-half cupful of vinegar, salt and pepper to season. Cover tightly and simmer until the cabbage is tender.

Tuna Fish Salad.

Soak one-half envelope of gelatin in one-fourth cupful of cold water, add three-fourths of a cupful of hot salad dressing and stir until well dissolved. Add one-half cupful of finely diced celery, one minced green pepper, one can of tuna that has been lightly flaked, salt and paprika to taste. Turn after blending well into individual molds, set away to harden. Serve on lettuce with a spring of parsley or water cress on top. Serve with a spoonful of mayonnaise.

Summer Squash en Casserole.

Take two and one-half cupfuls of cooked summer squash, add three-fourths of a cupful of thick tomatoes, two tablespoonfuls of butter, one and one-half teaspoonfuls of salt, one tablespoonful of grated onion, one-half cupful of seasoned chopped meat, fish or nuts, mix well, cover with buttered crumbs and bake until well browned. Egg plant or carrots may be served in the same manner.

CHRISTIAN MISSIONS

LESSON TEXT—Acts 1:6-8; 13:1-12.
GOLDEN TEXT—Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature.—Mark 16:15.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Sharing the Good News of Jesus.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Paul Goes Preaching.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Can I Do for Missions?

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Missionary Purpose of the Church.

God is, in his essential being, merciful and compassionate. All his promises to and actions toward man have been with redemptive ends.

I. Israel a Missionary Nation.

Following the apostasy of the whole race, God called Abraham to become the head of a race through whom all the nations of the earth were to be blessed (Gen. 12:1-3). The first gospel promise, that of Genesis 3:15, was to become an actuality through the missionary activities of the Jewish people.

1. The nations of the earth invited to look to God (Isa. 55:22). Israel was called to be the peculiar witness to the nations of Jehovah, the one God (Deut. 6:4).

2. Christ given as a light to the nations (Is. 49:6). Christ is the way, the truth, and the life (John 14:6). Christ is the light of the world (John 8:12).

3. Jonah, a Jew, goes as a missionary to a Gentile city (Jonah 3:1-10). Jonah is prophetic of the nation and God's purpose for the Jews. While the chosen nation has been disobedient to God as Jonah was, yet after severe chastisement they shall fulfill the divine purpose.

II. The Church a Missionary Organization.

The very genius of the Church is propagation through devout missionary effort.

1. The apostolic commission (Matt. 28:18, 20).

a. The authority of Jesus (v. 18). God gave him all authority in heaven and earth. b. The commission of the apostles (vv. 19, 20).

(1) It was to teach, that is, make disciples of all nations (v. 19). They were to make known to the world that Christ died to save sinners.

(2) Baptize those who believed. This baptism was to be in the name of the Father, Son and Holy Ghost, indicating that the believer has been brought into definite relationship to each member of the Holy Trinity.

(3) To teach the disciples obedience (v. 20). Profession is not enough. Obedience must issue.

c. The all-sufficient promise (v. 20). There would constantly be the blessing and fellowship of the all-powerful Savior and Lord.

2. The missionary program (Acts 1:6-8). The Church is under solemn obligation to witness to all the world of the gracious salvation which has been provided in Christ.

3. The first foreign missionaries (Acts 13:1-12). The occasion for this enterprise was a meeting of certain prophets and teachers at Antioch. While these ministers were engaged in praying, the Lord laid heavily upon their hearts the evangelization of the world. This marks the beginning of foreign missions as the deliberately planned enterprise of the Christian Church.

4. Preaching the gospel in Europe (Acts 16:1-10). Paul's inclination was to tarry in Asia Minor preaching the Word, but he was carried along by the Spirit. The Holy Spirit is just as active in closing doors as in opening them. The time had come for the gospel to begin its conquest of another continent. Paul, being hemmed in on all sides, was given the vision of a man of Macedonia pleading for help.

5. Preaching Christ before Agrippa (Acts 26:12-20). Paul, having been brought before the king, took advantage of the opportunity to witness to him of the Savior. Observe, a. His manner of life (v. 12). He showed that he had been in strictest accord with the most rigid sect of the Jews. b. His supernatural conversion (vv. 13-15). Christ had appeared to him on the way to Damascus and revealed himself to him. c. Jesus Christ commissioned him for a work (vv. 16-18). He was sent to the Gentiles to open their blind eyes, to turn them from darkness to light and from the power of Satan to God. d. His consecration (vv. 19, 20). He rendered immediate obedience to his commission. He showed that the opposition which he now experienced was due to his vigorous prosecution of his work.

The Foot of the Rainbow

The foot of the rainbow is never where you think it is. Perhaps there is a pot of gold there, but there are many more pots of gold that you will pass on your way to realize your dreams. Some men have the vision to see them.

The True End of Life

Happiness is the true end and aim of life. It is the task of intelligence to ascertain the conditions of happiness, and when found the truly wise will live in accordance with them.

Hoosiers Are Sceptical

of Making Desert Bloom

Isaiah said, "The desert shall rejoice and blossom as the rose." Longfellow spoke of great men's sublime lives leaving footprints on the sands of time. Others pushed irrigation projects along the Nile and did what they could to make useful the sandy wastes of the Sahara.

Sand possibilities have been brought nearer home by experiments at Rutgers university, where agricultural experts say their efforts to grow roses, sweet peas and other flowers in ordinary sand have met with unqualified success, cites the Indianapolis News.

Professor Charles H. Connors, head of the ornamental horticultural department at Rutgers, says that seashore gardeners, by applying chemical nutrients to the sand, may be able to grow flowers to the very edge of the ocean. They regard sand as almost completely under control of the grower, providing it has been enriched with the proper ingredients, and say that roses grown in sand produce a better root system than those in ordinary soil.

Carnations also are said to do better in sand. Nature lovers have cultivated an affection for sand because it is sand and nothing else. They journey to see the dunes of northern Indiana as a vast waste space, shifting with the winds; never the same from day to day.

The charm of a beach comes from the play of sunlight on the sand, the soft and yielding texture under foot and the dazzling whiteness of the vista that is exactly as nature created it.

Growing flowers along the seashore or attempting such ventures in the Indiana dune region is not unlike painting the lily.

Way Off to One Side

A country storekeeper from Missouri visited New York city recently. On his return, he was the center of attraction around the stove in his store the first evening. "New York is some town all right," he told his listeners. "Cars scootin' like lightning over yer head, dash-burned long trains a-divin' underground, buildin's so blamed high ye can't see the tops of 'em, millions o' miles o' paved streets, an' autos a-chasin' ye all over the street. It's a big town, all right, as I say, but it'll never be a success. It's too fur away."

TINLEY PARK

MRS. GEORGE THOEMING DIES

Mrs. George Thoenning, aged 78 years, a resident of Tinley Park about 20 years ago, died Tuesday at her home in Chicago Heights.

Mr. Thoenning, who died fifteen years ago, at one time conducted a blacksmith shop in Tinley Park. Surviving are four sons, William, Henry, Walter and George, Jr., and one daughter Ella, the latter residing in Memphis, Tenn.

Funeral services Friday afternoon from the Evangelical church in Chicago Heights.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rosenberg of Long Beach, California are visiting with the J. C. Funk family and also with relatives in Joliet and Chicago. They have been in the Golden State for two years and are highly pleased with the state and find their restaurant business going good.

The Tinley Park Catholic church which was formerly held in the Legion Community Hall, is now being held in the Saenger Hall.

Alderman Ernest E. Rice has been quite ill in his home the past week.

James English and family have moved into the Stockman flat recently vacated by the Herman Freitag family.

Due to rainy weather the church picnic which was to have been held by the Bachelor Grove Trinity Lutheran church last Sunday was rained out and will be held this coming Sunday.

The annual Sunday School picnic of the Tinley Park German M. E. church which was rained out Wednesday of this week, will be held in the orchard of Harry Brandau next Thursday afternoon and evening.

Mrs. John Manzke left last Friday to attend the funeral of her brother-in-law.

The Tinley Park P. T. A. wishes to thank everyone who helped or donated to make the past year a successful one. The membership was increased from 22 to 106.

The treasurer reported total receipts of over $263.00.

The by-laws have been revised and printed in booklet form. Any one wishing a copy can get it by calling at the PTA president's home.

Also anyone wishing to read the Parent-Teacher Magazine can get it from the PTA president also.

The PTA members have enjoyed many good speakers on their programs.

The PTA have done their bit in donating toward the school fund.

The home, church and schools are the foundation stones upon which every child must mold his or her life and character. So if you are interested in the school, the PTA cordially invites you to join this organization next fall.

Miss Louise Snodgrass will continue her teaching during the summer at the home of Mrs. Raleigh Bagby.

The annual picnic of the Zion Lutheran church will be held Sunday, June 30th in the Linden Garden Grove.

The Tinley Park Catholic church is planning to hold a big picnic in the Linden Garden on July 28th.

RNA ATTENTION!

Social meeting will be held on Tuesday, June 25th. Set all dates aside for that evening and come to the meeting. Important.

TINLEY TYO NEWS

Say Jackie Reed who-hoo is the new girl? Friend, what is the matter with Cassie?

Funny how the girls all want the big strong fire fighters. You big He Man You. Just the same I would like to meet the new black eyed girl friend.

T. Y. O. TATTLE

The Tinley Youth's organization has been holding their regular meetings every Monday night. A kitten-ball team has been organized and that peppy team gives an open challenge to all comers. A committee has been selected to put over a big Fourth of July celebration. And it is going to be big what I mean.

Our official night crawler catcher, Herr Kleppen was caught the other night in Frankfort attempting to aid a fellow fisherman in that fair village catch some bait.

Was Artie burning up the other Sunday! The reason is he had to work that night and what do Kelly and Bob do but take Artie's girl friend, you know who, and deliberately tease Artie by driving back and forth by the gas station and laugh in Artie's face. Ha, ha!

And now folks about that tremendous, colossal, gigantic 4th of July celebration that the T. Y. O. is going to pull off. There's going to be a stupendous and entirely different parade at 6:30 p. m. Don't forget and during the afternoon all you folks can enjoy yourselves playing unique games in the grove at Lorenze's. But the evening is when everybody can have a swell time dancing to the divine music of that well known Wes Barlow and all the lads.

Cherrio I'll be seeing you thar!

ORLAND PARK

The former members of the one time Entra Nous Club of Orland entertained at the home of Mrs. T. H. Davidson Sunday in honor of Mrs. Stella Hahenlein Ruzies whose marriage to Mr. Jake Ruzies former Orland Park barber last September was just recently announced. She was presented with an electric toaster by the former club members.

Mrs. Elizabeth Wagner and daughter, Miss LaVon of Fort Collins, Colorado has been visiting in the J. F. Schmadeke home the past week.

She told graphic accounts of the flood conditions which have been prevailing there the past week.

Mrs. Fred Kittle who has been an inmate of Dunning for a number of years and who at one time was an Orland Park resident, died in the institution Sunday. Funeral services were held Wednesday at the Kreuger Funeral Home in Blue Island.

The wet weather has produced a very big hay crop and the farmers are feeling very good over the prospects of a bumper all around crop this year.

The Orland Park Camp of the R. N. A., will meet June 27th in the Creer Hall.

The Orland Park Woman's Club will hold their regular monthly meetings the first Friday of the month instead of Thursday, the former meeting date.

Mrs. H. C. Melchor has taken over the business which her husband, the late H. C. Melchor conducted in Chicago under the name of the Western Rubber Co.

Miss Hazel Schmadeke is on nursing duty at the Silver Cross hospital in Joliet.

The St. Michael church parish is planning to hold their annual big Fourth of July picnic in the forest preserve, on 143rd street west of town.

Orland Lake which has been filled to capacity by the recent heavy rains is again the mecca for fisherman.

A new neon sign has been installed at the Purple Candle Restaurant. Several additional new living rooms are being completed in connection with the Purple Candle Restaurant.

Firemen Sponsor

Benefit Base Ball Game

Firemen from twenty-seven neighboring towns are participating in the sale of tickets for a benefit baseball game to be played between the Chicago Firemen and the Grove Street Colts of Blue Island, at Bauer's Field, Broadway and California avenue, Blue Island, on Sunday afternoon, June 23rd, at 3 p. m.

The affair, known as Community Firemen's Day, is being sponsored by the Southern Cook County Firemen's Association, of which the local department is a member.

A per centage of the proceeds from the ticket sales made by firemen of the local department will go into the home treasury, while every penny taken in over actual expenses will be used by the county organization for some worthy cause.

The ball teams playing that day are rated as two of the fastest playing teams on this district. The firemen are known by everyone, while the Grove Street Colts are fast gaining a reputation among the faster clubs of the Mid West League, of which they are a member.

Tickets to the game can be secured from any member of your local department.

Mrs. Fred Kopelman

A miscellaneous shower was held last Tuesday afternoon in honor of Miss Mary Frances Frazer in the home of Mrs. Wilbur H. Francis in New Lenox. Ninety-five guests were in attendance, besides the hostesses Miss Helen Frazer, and Mrs. Wilbur Francis, sisters of the bride. The reception room was prettily decorated in blue and gold, colors of the bride. Little Miss Ramona Moore and Lillian Long, dressed in blue and gold, presented the gifts to the bride. After the presentation of the many presents, dainty refreshments were served by the hostesses.

Mrs. Arthur Hewitt, who has been ill in her home remains on the sick list.

Mary Boyce has recovered from an attack of mumps.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Rowley are the proud parents of a baby girl. She will be a playmate of little Joan Ruth.

Farm Credit

Act Improved

The Farm Credit Act of 1935 has brought about many improvements of interest to the indebted agricultural people and the agricultural people desiring to purchase land in Will County. These changes in the Farm Loan Act and the Emergency Farm Credit Mortgage Act were approved by the President, June 3rd. Copies of this new Farm Credit Act have not been printed as yet, therefore this information is being given circulation thru the medium of the newspapers.

Land Bank Commissioner Loan may now be made for the same period as the Federal Land Bank Loan, loaning up to the maximum loan of 75 per cent of the appraised normal value of the farm.

The borrower may borrow money for the following purposes: (a) To provide for the purchase of land for agricultural uses. (b) To provide for the purchase of equipment, fertilizers, and livestock necessary for the proper and reasonable operation of the mortgaged farm; the term "equipment" to be defined by the Farm Credit Administration. (c) To provide buildings and for the improvement of farm lands; the term "improvement" to be defined by the Farm Credit Administration. (d) To liquidate indebtedness of the owner of the land mortgaged incurred for agricultural purposes. (e) To provide the owner of the land mortgaged with funds for general agricultural uses.

Commissioner loans may be made also for the following additional purposes: Refinancing either in connection with proceedings under Chapter 8 of the Bankruptcy Act of July 1, 1898, as amended, or otherwise, any indebtedness, secured or unsecured, of the farmer, or which is secured by a lien on all or any part of the farm property accepted as security for the loan.

The period of making loans from the Land Bank Commissioner has been extended to February 1, 1940.

The rate of interest on loans made thru national farm loan associations or purchased from joint stock land banks by a Federal Land Bank, outstanding May 12, 1933, or made thru national farm loan associations after such date, shall not exceed three and a half per cent per annum for all interest payable on installment dates occurring within a period of one year, commencing July 1, 1935, and shall not exceed 4 per cent per annum for all interest payable on installment dates occurring within a period of two years, commencing July 1, 1938. The interest rate on Direct loans will be half of 1 per cent higher. You will note that this is a temporary any reduction in interest rate on such loans until July 1, 1938. The base rate will continue to be four and a quarter per annum on association loans and four and three quarter per annum on Direct land bank loans, and notes and mortgages will be drawn accordingly.

No payment on the principal portion of any installment of loans made thru national farm loan associations or purchased from joint stock land banks, or direct land bank loans, outstanding, on June 3, 1935, shall be required prior to July 11, 1938, if the borrower shall not be in default with respect to any other condition or covenant of his mortgage. You will note that this deferment of principal privilege pertains only to loans outstanding on June 3, 1935. There will be no deferment of principal privilege on land bank loans made subsequent to that date.

There is no change in interest rate on Commissioner loans. It remains at five per cent per annum.

Anyone desiring to take advantage of these new interest rates in refinancing their indebtedness should see the Will County National Farm Loan Association at 301 N. Ottawa Street, Joliet, Illinois, which organization takes care of all the Government Loans in Will County.

HOW ONE "CODE" WORKED

San Francisco—The end of the NRA prompted local stores here and in Los Angeles to cut 25 per cent off their retail prices for butter, sugar and other foodstuffs. Canny merchants hoped to make up the loss on other items. Annoyed, a nationwide chain took full page newspaper space, offered to pay standard prices for any food products sold below cost at other stores. Housewives did a brisk business, buying supplies at cut-rate stores, reselling them to the chain at a profit. In 3 days the price-cutters brought their prices back into line; charged their losses to experience.

DICING FOR BIBLES

St. Ives, England—More than two and a half centuries ago, the Rev. Dr. Robert Wilde, a Puritan preacher, willed the interest on a present-day equivalent of $250 with which to buy Bibles. They were to be presented to the three boys and three girls of St. Ives who threw the highest dice in open contest. Last week twelve youngsters gravely "rolled the bones" for the ancient honor, throwing three dice each. Then the rector of All Saints Parish preached a sermon on the Bible for which he received ten shillings, also paid out of the bequest of 1678.

SCHOOLS: Downstate schools are still awaiting the pleasure of the governor to see what can be done for them after Chicago is taken care of. We hope to get some place with Senate 321 and it was advanced last week after a concerted push from the downstate school people. This provides for about two and a half million dollars to be paid to downstate counties on account of the amount due on the distributive fund for years 1930, 1931 and 1932. We also hope for a roll call on Senate bills 78 and 79 carrying the seven million due on account of the diversion of taxes other than real estate and which is due down state counties.

MILK: House Bill 942, Wilson, which was designed to regulate the production of milk on the part of the department has been changed so much that a new bill has been put in and the old one discarded. The small producers were afraid that the regulations would be so severe that they would be put out of commission and only those with funds to make the necessary improvements would remain in the business. This has been altered in the new bill and is not so rigid. Copies on request.

Further on this subject, a bill has been put in by the committee appointed to investigate the distribution of milk. This would set up a board for control of relations between producer and dealer instead of the system now prevailing which has met with some dissatisfaction. Consideration next week.

FAIR TRADE BILL: This will reply to the many letters and telegrams I have received on this subject. I will support the bill in every way possible believing that it does give a chance to the small dealer with whom I have always voted in my desire to be of help to the independents who are trying to weather the chain stores. It insures fair competition I believe and will do all I can for it.

Chevrolet Dealers

Endorse Newspaper

Advertising

Seventy-four of Chevrolet's leading dealers, who together accounted for the sales of 38,116 new cars and trucks last year, attending a two-day conference at Detroit on sales and advertising plans for the remainder of 1935, went on record as unanimously endorsing the Chevrolet Motor Company's decision, announced at the closing session to retain the newspaper as the backbone of the company's advertising media.

The announcement that Chevrolet intended to adhere to this time-tried policy was made by C. P. Fiske, advertising manager, who spoke in enthusiastic terms of the results the company has obtained through newspaper advertising, in which it has long been a conspicuous leader.

"We are constantly on the lookout for means of making our appeal to the public more effective," said Mr. Fiske, "but up to date we have found nothing to compare with the newspaper as the 'main highway' for our advertising expenditure."

The day's sessions were in the nature of round-table discussions, and the subject was referred to dealers for expressions of opinion. At the close of the discussion, which was strongly in support of the plan, the dealers voted it their unanimous endorsement.

The conference, held under the supervision of William E. Holler, vice president and general sales manager, sought to obtain free interchange of ideas on the mutual problems of the company and its dealers. Several round-table discussions were on the program, and dealers were invited to offer constructive suggestions on advertising and other subjects relating to their business. Several suggestions made at a previous conference of the same type were adopted with excellent results, and the cementing of dealer-factory relations, made possible through the conference, more than justified the undertaking in the opinion of Chevrolet officials.

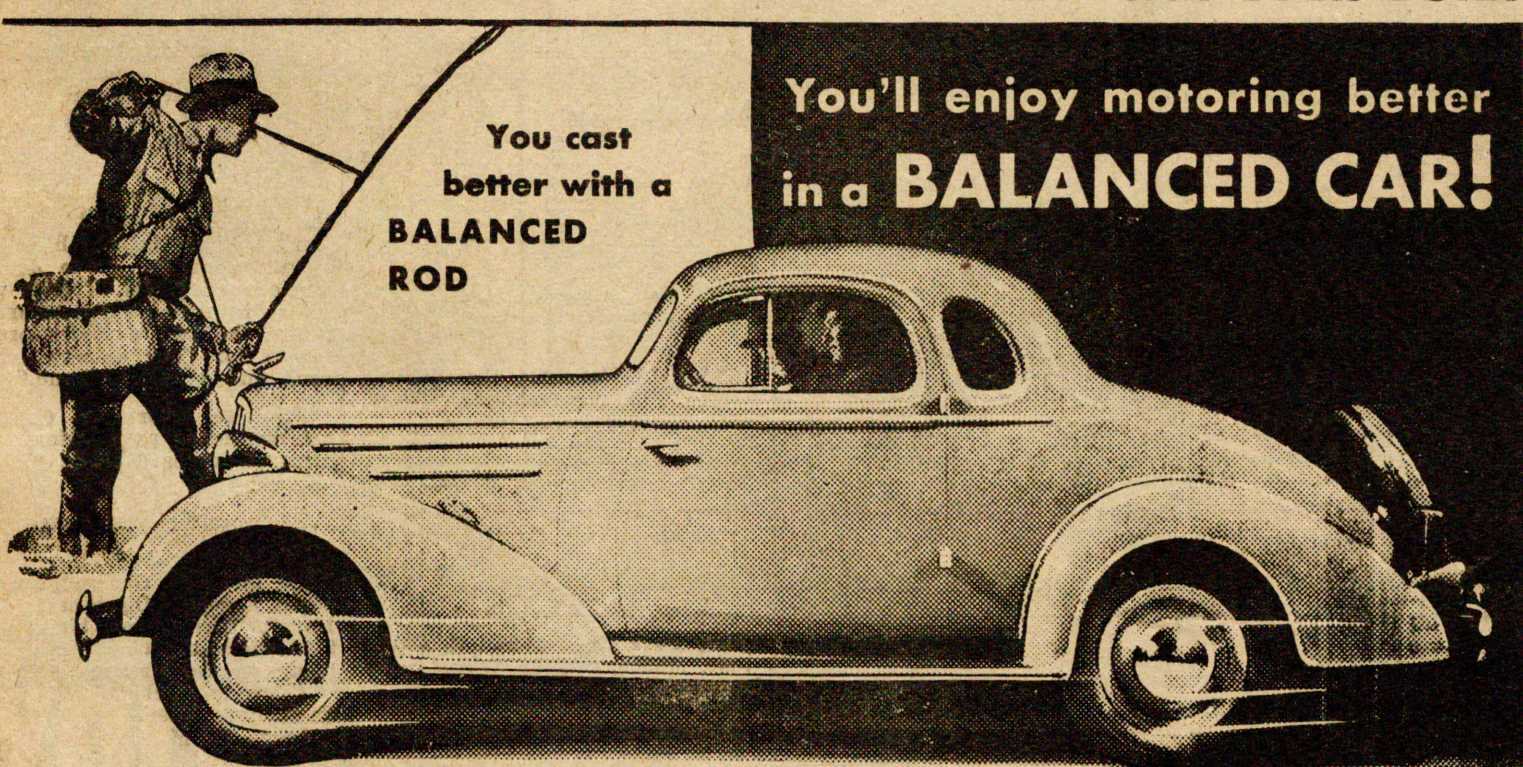

While the meeting was termed a "dealer's advertising conference," its scope was wider than that name would imply, Mr. Holler explained. The sessions touched upon every phase of Chevrolet dealer activity—new cars and trucks, used cars, parts, accessories, service, accounting and business management, and financing.

Representatives of each Chevrolet department outlined for the group of dealers the company's plans for the summer, so that when the dealers left Detroit they took with them a complete picture of what is in prospect.

It will have all the facts available for applicants between now and time the law takes effect.

INSURANCE CODE Passed. MOTOR TAX REDUCTION. Conferences and accusations of motives about all up to now. Maybe more to report after next week. Lots of support for the proposition but opposition from Mr. Kingery, Department of Purchases and Construction.

Pattern 2190

As simple to get into as a smock, but with all the evidences of a carefully thought-out house dress is this new model. The slightly flared cap sleeves, cut in one with shoulders, and front and back panels (which give slender lines) are attractive details. The diagonal buttoning lends further interest and the roomy pockets add a style note as well as being useful. You'll like it in printed lawn, swiss, gingham, muslin or a solid color cotton, such as broadcloth or percale. When a slightly heavier material is used, the necessity of petticoat is eliminated.

Pattern 2190 is available in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 16 takes 4½ yards 36 inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

SEND FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Write plainly name, address, and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE.

Address orders to the Sewing Circle Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth Street, New York City.

EXPLAINING IT

"Yes, it is really remarkable," observed mother at the head of the table. "Clifford seems to eat twice as much chicken when we have visitors."

"Indeed!" exclaimed the lady visitor. "And, pray, why is that, Clifford?"

"'Cause that's the only time we have it!" replied the truthful lad.

Impressionism

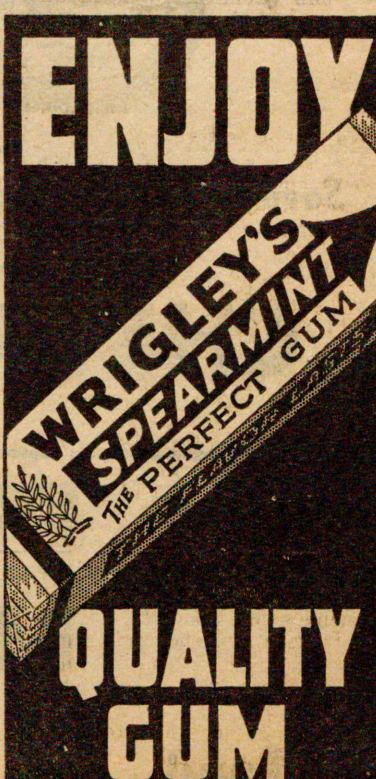

"You ought to know a great deal of politics by this time."

"I try to pay attention," answered Senator Sorghum. "But I'm afraid I'm getting to be like a whole lot of people who are influenced not so much by what they know as by what they suspect."

SYNOPSIS

Theodore Gatlin adopts a baby, "Penelope," in an effort to solve his matrimonial troubles. But his wife has never wanted her, and their affairs end in the divorce court. At a baseball game a ball strikes ten-year-old Penelope on the nose. Mrs. Gatlin spirits the child to Europe. Gatlin wills Penelope all his money, and is about to begin a search for her when a motor accident ends his life. Some ten years later, in San Francisco, Stephen Burt, rising young psychiatrist, is presented by Dan McNamara, chief of police, with a new patient—Nance Belden, a girl with a dual personality, for which her "saddle nose" is in part responsible. McNamara does not think she is a criminal and obtains Burt's testimony in court. Lanny, the doctor's office nurse, is also won over. Nance's criminal record outweighs Doctor Burt's explanation of her case and she is sent to San Quentin penitentiary. Nance escapes, although shot, and goes to Lanny's apartment. From one of the men in the boat on which the girl escaped McNamara learns that Nance's real name is Penelope Gatlin. He also discovers that she is heirless to $750,000. Fearful of McNamara, in his official capacity, Nance flees. Lanny finds her in her apartment, asleep. Then she disappears, and McNamara learns that she is living in Paris.

This was too much. Lanny put her arms around him and kissed him on each cheek.

"And that's a seal that'll get by, too," Dan was embarrassed. Lanny was, too—so she took a hasty departure.

The two men stared after her, admiration in their eyes. "A d—d fine woman, that. None finer," said McNamara.

"Why don't you marry her?" The suggestion popped out of Doctor Burt as suddenly as it had occurred to him. "Now, there's an idea," McNamara mumbled dazedly. "How long have you been mulling it over?"

"Subconsciously, since you entered the office. I caught a gleam in Lanny's eyes—and when she kissed you, the subconscious crystallized into the conscious."

"I'll think it over."

"You'll not think it over, Mac. You'll make up your mind now. And I can rather be a bachelor than a disappointed lover."

"Tell you what to do, Mac," Stephen advised. "Send her a nice photograph of yourself. If she puts it in a silver frame you may proceed with confidence."

"How will I know, my boy?"

"If it's in a silver frame on the dressing table in her bedroom, it'll be a cinch."

"How'll I get into her bedroom, you blockhead?"

"I'll steal her latchkey and have a duplicate made. Then you can investigate."

McNamara rose and held out his hand. "'Tis a pity, Stephen, my boy, you aren't in my detective bureau. Good night."

The annual parade of the police force was but a week distant, and during that week Dan lived entirely on orange juice and spent his nights in a Turkish bath. As a result he dropped eight pounds off his northern elevation. Very erect and martial he sat on a milk-white charger, while a photographer took several exposures of him and his command.

When the prints were delivered to him, he sent them all to Lanny with a note saying:

"Now that we are both in the same crooked conspiracy, I thought you might be interested in having the latest photograph of the biggest crook of them all."

The following day Stephen Burt sent him a key, and the following afternoon McNamara let himself into Lanny's house and discovered one of the photos on her dressing table—and in a gold frame! Another print in a silver frame appeared in her drawing room.

"Holy Moses!" he soliloquized. "I'm in for it now! God help me, there's no escape!"

CHAPTER IX

Upon his return to his office McNamara found in his mail a photograph of Lanny, indorsed: "To dear old Dan—from his partner in crime—Lanny." While he was gazing upon it and telling himself how little justice the portrait did the beloved subject Stephen telephoned, demanding that he come to the office.

Lanny was in tears. "I've just had another visit from Mrs. Merton, Dan," Stephen began. "It seems that after two years of inactivity, during which time she had elected to believe Penelope Gatlin dead, she has developed a crazy notion to prove it. She wants to get Penelope's fortune."

"You questioned her about her daughter?"

"Yes, but she doesn't know it," said Stephen. "I hypnotized her first and spent an hour questioning her, and it appears that this morning she visited your captain of detectives and asked him to throw out a dragnet to locate Penelope Gatlin. She brought him some snapshots of the girl—told him her real name—all about her money—the girl's habits and peculiarities—everything. When I'd discovered that Penelope is an escaped convict. They will immediately deport her and Flynn will meet her at Hoboken."

"But can't you do anything about it, Dan?" Lanny pleaded.

"Nothing! Flynn and Angellotti are on the trail officially now." He stared at Lanny tragically. "I'm out of the picture now and can do nothing but advise you. Send two cables—one to Nance Belden in Paris and the other to Penelope Gatlin at the same address. Say: 'Come at once—Lanny dying—cable name vessel on which leaving,' and sign it 'Steve.'"

"I'll meet her at the dock," Stephen decided. "I'm due in New York next week."

"You'll do nothing of the sort," said Dan. "I'll send that convict in my house." He shuddered and grimaced in his distress. "I could handle the wop with money, but Flynn has sworn an oath! And because I've made a monkey out of him he'll keep it. He'd rather make a monkey out of me now than acquire great riches—and if I'm broke, most likely the captain of detectives will step into my shoes, and Flynn will stand a good chance of becoming captain of detectives. Oh, murderation, Lanny darling, have you a little whisky in the house? I'm faint, so I am."

"You're suffering from heart trouble, you egg," Lanny cried savagely. "Yes! A weak heart, a soft heart, a human heart."

"Send that cable," he roared. "Yes, get busy, Lanny," Stephen urged. "The bird of time has but a little way to flutter—and the wretched fowl is on the way."

After Dan McNamara had left his office, Doctor Stephen Burt gazed with mild disapproval upon Lanny.

"Unlike you and Dan McNamara," he said, "I dislike having the peaceful tenor of my life disturbed."

"This intrigue is myrrh and incense to me, Stevie."

"I know it. You and Dan love a fight for its own sweet sake, but I do not. I have a particular aversion to grand jury indictments, and it is a possibility you and your boy friend have let me in for."

"Fiddlesticks!"

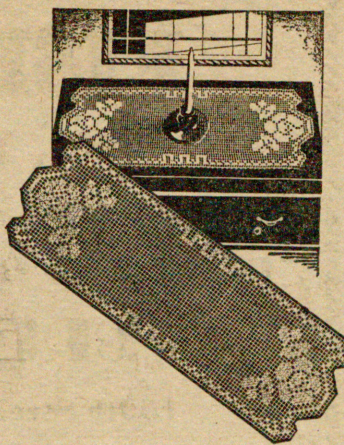

"Lanny, I'll be angry with you in a minute. Now, listen to me, and whatever you do, do not talk back. Dan McNamara has run out on us. I mean you. He's through. Dan's rattled. If he hadn't been he'd never have ordered the sending of such a fool cablegram."

"Dan McNamara knows his way about," Lanny defended. "He's more than nine years old."

"So do I, Lanny. It will be highly dangerous to send that cablegram. How is she to know it isn't a message to decoy her back to the penitentiary? If she receives it while she's Penelope Gatlin, she is extremely liable to cable for confirmation before acting on it. That would mean a delay of not less than twenty-four hours. On the other hand, if she is Nance Belden when she receives it, she will leave Paris openly and walk right into the hands of the New York police. I'm not much of a

Crocheted Scarf Is Easy for Beginner

By GRANDMOTHER CLARK

There is nothing the needleworker can make that is more practical and useful than a scarf. Here is a scarf that is to be crocheted in the large filet stitch and when a number 5 steel crochet hook and number 15 cotton is used the scarf will measure about 12x34 inches when finished. Even the beginner will find the filet stitch easy and interesting to work, especially in the popular "Rose" design shown here. This scarf matches the Rose chair set shown a few weeks ago.

This package, No. 807, contains sufficient cream color Mountain Craft crochet cotton to complete this scarf, also instructions, black and white diagram for easy counting of meshes, and crochet hook.

Write our Crochet Department, inclosing 40 cents for complete package No. 807 or 10 cents for instructions and diagram sheet only.

A new proposed highway from the Volcano of Kilauea, in the nation's Hawaii National park, to Kalapana, Hawaii, is being surveyed. The road leads past an ancient Hawaiian heiau (temple) and a natural swimming pool in a landlocked bay, fringed with coco palms, kukui and hala trees.

Excessive Greed

Cupidity is a great desire for wealth, avarice.

Women Form Majority of Turkey's Population

Women form the majority of Turkey's population; they exceed men by not less than 7.9 per cent, according to official statistics.

In rural districts the percentage of women is even much higher, as in most of the larger cities the male element prevails.

The population of Istanbul with 709,000 inhabitants, against 1,100,000 under Ottoman empire, includes 138,000 married couples, while 333,000 persons are unmarried. There are 19,000 widowers, against 72,000 widows. The number of marriages has increased steadily from 1927, when 2,895 were registered, to 1932 with 4,813 marriages. The majority of the brides were between nineteen and twenty-four years old, while men mostly married between thirty and thirty-four.

More than 13,000,000 Turkish citizens profess the Mahometan faith; 109,906 are Greek Orthodox, 81,872 Israelites; 77,433 Armenian-Gregorian; 39,511 Roman Catholics, and 24,307 Protestants. The rest of the population of 17,500,000 belong either to no religious community or their religion could not be established.

CONSTANT SMOKER

Most men that smoke a lot have what we call "fuzzy tongues" and don't know it! Smoking stops the flow of saliva in the mouth and you get too much acid in your system. Makes you feel sluggish and loggy. The best way to lick the acids and still keep smoking is by taking MILNESIA wafers twice a day. Your mouth will always feel clean and fresh and you always have your usual pep.

MILNESIA Wafers neutralize the excess acids that cause indigestion, heartburn and sick headaches. Each Wafer is a full adult dose. Pleasant to take. Recommended by thousands of physicians. Buy a package today—at all good druggists.

Economical, too!
Each Milnesia package contains more Magnesium Hydroxide than all other liquid forms.

"Not if she goes to Paris."

"I've heard of police chiefs securing a leave of absence for six months."

"I couldn't take a six months' honeymoon to Paris, lad. I've saved eight thousand dollars."

"What? You a chief of police and only worth eight thousand dollars?"

"God help me, boy, I'm honest."

Stephen roared his merriment. "Why, you great jackass, I know that. I wouldn't let every man have Lanny. But don't you worry about money. Lanny is a business woman. She's managed me since I was a boy, and that includes my finances. I'm loaded up with good dividend paying stocks. You know, I could be a mighty good friend to the man who would be good to Lanny."

"I'll consider the proposition," the cautious Celt replied, "although I'd enough to put Lanny in tears, I awakened Mrs. Merton and sent her away happy, but with this command firmly planted in her subconscious mind—she must not think of the name Penelope Gatlin. When I awakened her I asked her if she had an adopted daughter. She replied, surprised, that she had. I then asked her the name of this adopted daughter—and a look of terror came over her face. For the life of her she couldn't think of the name and begged me not to mention it if I knew it."

"It's a pity you didn't think of doing that before she went to the detective bureau with her information," McNamara cried, and called up the Security Trust company.

"The captain of detectives has put Flynn and Angellotti on the case," he announced dreadingly when he had hung up, "and Flynn has already been to the bank, making inquiries. When he presented his credentials the cashier showed him everything. They'll identify that girl as Nance Belden, trace her to Paris as readily as I did, and the French government will be notified detective, but tonight I'm a better one than that McNamara idiot."

"He's not an idiot. He's one of the finest men I ever knew."

"Keep quiet," he ordered severely. "You ditch my train of thought."

He drew a sheet of paper toward him and commenced writing, while Lanny glowered at him. Presently he sat up and read:

"Grave danger stop beat it some other country traveling by motor stop upon arrival cable address stop if need funds will cable them stop leave Paris establishment going concern stop go out for walk and disappear stop unless these instructions followed you leave trail for persecutors to follow."

"Mac."

He looked up. "How do those instructions strike you?"

NEWS-WEEK is a weekly newspaper published in the form of a magazine; a news-magazine.
It operates like a great daily newspaper; it is served by more than five thousand correspondents in the strategic news-centers of the world; its teletypes are fed twenty hours a day by radio, by cable,
by wire.
Yet it functions in a way difficult in the daily presentation of news; it incorporates in its treatment of events a background of fact possible only through remorseless research on innumerable fronts; the pictorial fact completes its presentation.
Daily newspapers keep news-readers abreast of the events of the moment;
that is the peculiar duty of the newspaper.
Busy news readers read

Celebrates 60th
Ministerial Anniversary

The Rev. Legh Applegate, of Hobart, Indiana, former pastor of the Grace Episcopal church in New Lenox and of St. John's Episcopal church in Lockport, was the honored guest at a reception held recently in Gary, Indiana, celebrating the 60th anniversary of his ordination into the ministry. About 150 friends and former parishioners attended.
The Rev. Mr. Applegate is 85 years old, and altho he does not have full charge of regular weekly services he assists in the special activities of the church. He is an uncle of Mrs.
George Morris, Miss Bess Jones and Legh Jones of New Lenox.

UNITED UNEMPLOYED NEWS NOTES

The regular meeting was held on Tuesday evening. James Eggerton was in charge of the meeting.
The attendance was very good for the weather conditions and the business was transacted in a manner that made everyone feel they were glad they came.

The organist played and led a patriotic song which opened the meeting. Those who did not know the words of the song hummed it, so it gave the humming birds a chance.

Mr. Henry Tyler, chairman of the Vets picnic called to thank the Unit for their helping hand and cooperation at the grove during the picnic Sunday. Mr. Tyler's visit resulted in forming an alliance between the two organizations that stands for "our country, brotherhood and a helping hand."

Thru an error Mrs. Gaddes was not mentioned as a winner of a prize at our card party. "Excuse it, please".

The meeting was closed with a song.

Mr. and Mrs. George Bennett rendered a song "Oh What a Pal is Mary". Their voices blended into a tone poem of harmony and excelled many on the air today.

There is a chance of a dance.
Particulars later.
Judge K. M. Landis is a good scout. Aint he?

MOKENA

While cutting pork chops, William Evitt had the misfortune of nearly severing the tip of the index finger of the left hand with the cleaver. He has been under the care of Dr. E.
G. MacMahon and is getting along nicely.
